NAME	ADDRESS

The main objective of this family history was to record the families who have made Missouri their home since the mid 1800's. To do this we have gone back as far as records and time permitted, and on each of the families many records were found. Letters written in the 1870's were valuable, telling us of their way of life shortly after the Civil War as well as the genealogy information they contained.

The records, vital statistics, and historical libraries were helpful, but our elder kinsmen have given us much interesting and useful information that was greatly appreciated. They have spent much of their time helping to tie the many families together. I have met many of these since this was begun, and their acquaintance means so much, they are now a part of this history, truly dear cousins. Some of those who have helped are: Samuel Rice, Marcellus Rice, Knoxville, Tennessee, Joe Westley Rice, Cleveland, Tennessee, Rhoadman Rice, Dallas Texas, Emma Malcome, Bowie, Texas, Callie Layman, Ardemore, Oklahoma, Otis Hurst, Urbana, Missouri, Collins Cantrell, Springfield, Missouri, and Charley Pitchford, Mountain Home, Arkansas.

Among those who have passed away, but gave me assistance, Mrs. Eltie George, Springfield, Missouri, Mrs. Lee Rice, Marshfield, Missouri, and Mrs. May Buttram, Niangua, Missouri.

I wish also to thank the many aunts and uncles who have helped me collect this information. I have been permitted to use pictures that have been kept over a period of many years, which I hope may make this more interesting for all of us, among those who have helped are, Ola Johnson, Minnie Rader, Rosa Montgomery, Lee Rice all of Marshfield, Missouri and Gusta Bingaman of Monrose, Missouri.

To each of the "cousins" who have given me the various family data, I wish to say thanks, without your help, this could not have been accomplished. I do regret that some names have been omitted, this was only because I did not know or could not contact everyone.

Errors in recording the many names may have occurred, but none were made intentionally.

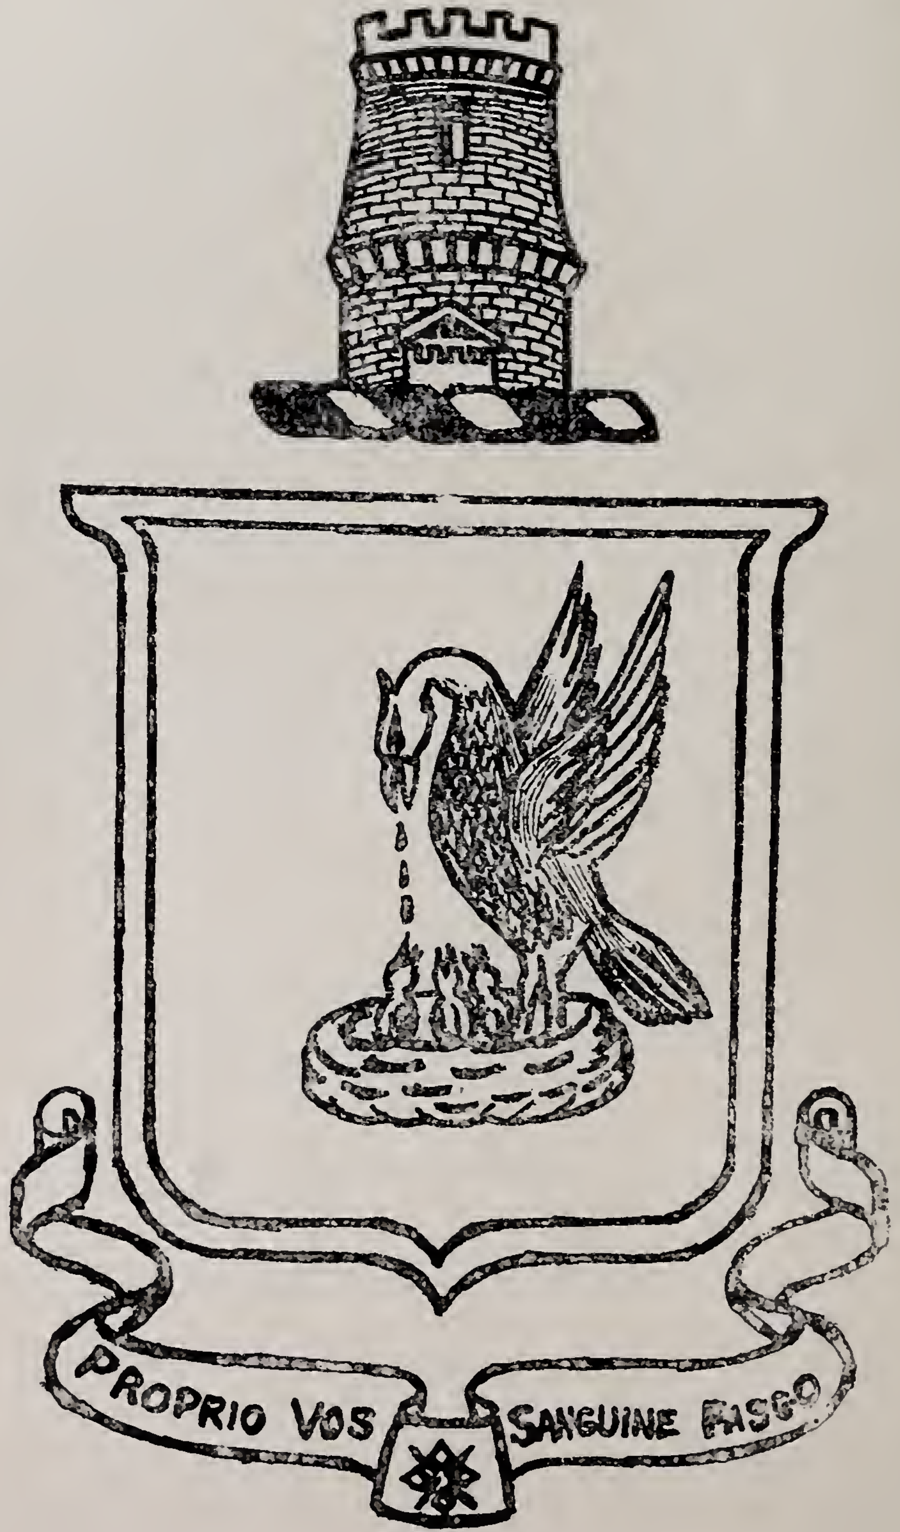
"If we tried
To sink our past beneath our feet,
The future would not stand."
Elizabeth Browning

To make the book easier to follow through each generation, the number before each name is the generation of that person. The number 1 generation being the earliest recorded. The last number before each name is the number of that immediate family. The name in parenthesis is the name of the parent.

CANTRELL

The research of the ancient family that bears the Cantrell name led into a most interesting genealogy. Their name was found in the early Egyptian documents, through ancient English registers, in Ireland, as participants in the French Hugenot Wars, and into the New World in 1608.

Cantrell, according to ancient Egyptian registers, is defined as "the little singer" or "one who rings the Chantrells." Their coat of arms and the family crest are among the first ones recorded by Richard III and found recorded in the Heralds College or College of Arms, incorporated during the reign of Richard III. The Crest registered to them: Argent (silver) A Pelican in her piety, sable (black) crest, a tower, argent. The silver denotes sincerity and peace. The peligan, one of the oldest emblems used, is defined by the Egyptians as a heiro-glyphia emblems denoting maternal affections. In the Cantrell Crest, the pelican and her young were bitten by a serpent that had secretly invaded her nest. She launched her bosom and with purple balsom streaming from the open sluice expels the infused vemon cements and cures, healing the wound inflicted by the nocious adversaries. A later interpretation of the Crest; The Pelican heiroglyphics expresses four duties of a father toward his offspring, first; generation, second; education, third; training or the institution of learning, and fourth; the duty of informing his children of his virtuous and honest life.



The motto: Porprio Vas Sanquine Pasgo, translated; "I feed you my own blood," gives the Webster International Dictionary's definition a more popular interpretation; "Pelican in her piety represents a pelican prodding her breast to nourish her young" and is adapted as a symbol of the Redeemer and of Charity.

King's Newton, England, during the reign of Henry V in 1413. The survey shows them as landed proprietors of vast estates spanning the reigns of Henry V and VI, Edward VI and Henry VIII. Local Cheshire records covering the era of 1422 to 1558 also shows them as large land holders. They were enrolled as Patriots, soldiers, schoolmasters, sailors, barristers, writers, Rectors and Vicars of the Church of England.

The following line starts with John, recorded as a minister and school master.

Hugo Cantrell, an archer during the reign of Lord Grey of Codner at the battle of Againcourt in 1415, is recorded in the Registry, however, the name has been recorded earlier, in King John's reign in 1199. The Church of St. Alkmund's at Derbyshire was established in the ninth Centruy and William Cantrell was recorded as a scribe.

The Cantrells are also named among the French Hugonots. The crisis facing them in 1572 resulted in their flight back to their native England to save their lives and to escape prosecution.

1-1 .JOHN, Recorded in the Registry of the Church.
2-1. (John) SIMEON
3-1. (SIMEON) WILLIAM was a Rector of St. Michaels in the borough of Stomford and County of Lincoln and Ruthlant. A tablet of this effect is placed in the common rails of the Church in his honor.
4-1. (William) THOMAS a Scribe between 1519-1579.
5-1. (Thomas) RALPH, of Thorpe Hall, Scribe of the Bishop, the Lord of Norvich.
4-2. (William) WILLIAM, a Scribe. In 1556 Thomas Duke of Norfolk was beheaded by the order of Queen Elizabeth. Before his death, he placed the management of his estate into the hands of William Cantrell, then a young man. The Queen allowed William to continue as trustee until she sent Earl of Arundel to the Tower, then appointed William Cantrell to act for himself. He was known to be a gentleman of fortune anl consquence in the reigns of Henry VIII and Queen Elizabeth. He established himself and won marks of royal favor and confidence. In the Parish Church of Hemingstone at St. Gregory's Church, a mural was erected with the following epitaph:

"Man here thou mayst entombed see
A man of honest fame
Came home to earth, who in this life
In office and degree,
Now wrapped in clay, then think O man
What will become of thee
This William Cantrell for office was
With others put in trust
Regarded well for virtuous life
Wise, sober, true and just
Even of the whole revenue of
That mighty Prince of late
Late Thomas, Duke of Norfolk height
Some time of Real Estate."

5-1 (William) WILLIAM of Derbyshire came to America in 1608. The adventurer who was the first of the Cantrell family to reach the New World came in the "Phenix," commanded by Captain Francis Nelson. It was in the small fleet of three ships that brought the famed John Smith's party to the shores of the New World. They came by the Canary Islands and the West Indies, making the journey in four months and landing on April 20, 1608, near Jamestown.

These adventurous souls were amazed at the sight of the virgin countryside. Captain Newport, a member of the party, described it as "fair meadows and goodly tall trees, with such fresh waters running through the woods, as I was almost ravished at the first sight thereof." Thus Jamestown was founded in a place easy to defend but unfortunately low and marshy. It proved so unhealthy that many of the party died the first few years. They had been told of another ocean lying just beyond the mountains, but this was doubted by Captain Smith who wrote that Virginia lay; on the East as the great Ocean, on the South-Florida, on the North-Nova Francia and to the West-limits unknown.

William Cantrell was one of the fourteen men who accompanied John Smith on an exploration expedition to Chesapeake Bay area. They gave a point lying between the Potowomuk and Pamuke rivers, (now known as Potomac and Rappahannock) the name of Cantrell.

Bishop Mead wrote of William Cantrell as being a close friend and companion to Rev. Robert Hunt, one of the first ministers of Virginia. William, according to this letter, attended the Baptism of Pocahontas. He brought the family crest to the new world, engraved on his prized gun, that saw much use in the raw, uncivilized colony. They faced starvation, hard work, and often death for the first few years.

Various records are found of him, one: "William Cantrell, gentleman, 2 sub. pd. 12-10 lbs." The numbers after the name indicates a person was an incorporator of the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd Virginia Charter and was so marked when paid. His name is found in the "Names of Adventurers of Virginia." In mss. Court of Preceedings in Virginia, April 28, 1619 to January 27, 1624 quote, "At a quarter court held for Virginia in the afternoon July 3, 1622, William Cantrell, present."

6-1. (William) HENRY, recorded as William's son. In Robinson's Mss.: "Henry Cantrell administered oath to men of experience and dignity, who were appointed Inspectors of Tobacco Corps, as Justice in Charles County, Virginia in 1639."

7-1. (Henry) RICHARD, A resident of Philadelphia prior to 1689. He was in the colony of Virginians who migrated to the banks of the Delaware. Richard had been joined by others of the family by growth from two generations in America, as well as migration from England. He was appointed administrator of the estate of Joseph Cantrell, an unmarried nephew, who drown in the Schuykill River, May 10, 1689. Joseph had three younger brothers in England at that time. John and Godfrey, two brothers of the Cantrell clan, had migrated to the settlement from Queens County, Ireland, in 1669 and had immediately become ensnared in the hands of the law when they refused to contribute part of their goods to the Church of Rosenallis by order of the Quakers. Whether this affected their kinsmen or not, the Cantrells were never listed as Quakers, but as members of the Church of England. Richard married Dorothy Jones in 1693. She was the daughter of Ellis and Jane Jones, who had migrated to America from Flint or Danbright, Wales. They arrived on the ship "Submission" in 1682. Ellis, 45 years old, his wife 40, and their children: Barbara born 1663, married Daniel Pegg, Mary born 1674 married a cousin Isaac Jones and they had a son Isaac born 1782, and the third daughter, Dorothy, born 1672, were the members of this family listed on the registry. They were devout Quakers and were greatly concerned and displeased when Dorothy married Richard Cantrell, a member of the Church of England. However, Dorothy defied her parents and church for the man of her choice, the marriage was registered in the Quaker Quarterly as a marriage "out of meeting." A land transaction found in Original Records and deed books, "July 6, 1692 before the meeting of Commissioners, composed of Capt. William Markham, Robert Turner, and John Goodson, Richard Cantrell requested a warrant for lot thirty feet in breath located on Third and Market Street." In another Patent Book, a record was found of a lease with description; "Between 5th and 6th Streets, containing three acres and sixty perches, totaling twenty one meters, given to Richard Cantrell." This transaction was dated May 5, 1702 and was made by Edward Shippen, Griffith Owen, and James Logan as the proprietory and Governor in Chief of Pennsylvania and Territories. Richard's occupation was listed as brickmaker. He purchased the rights of woods, shade trees, undershed ways, water, watercourses, liberty, profits, advantages and opportunities whatsoever. On this plot, he erected a substantial house made of brick, the dimensions were eighteen feet by thirty six feet, one and a half stories in height.

8-1. (Richard) MARY died January 16, 1695. Her death recorded in the Quaker Monthly Registery as; "Mary Cantrell, daughter of Richard and Dorothy Cantrell died January 16, 1695. This is a record of residents of Philadelphia and not as friend."

8-2. (Richard) ZEBULON

8-3. (Richard) JOSEPH born about 1693 in Philadelphia, where he spent his boyhood years. He married in early 1700's, a girl named Catherine, a daughter of one of the Swedish inhabitants that was referred to as "old swedes." The Swedish population was the first to settle in this community. Joseph and his family lived in New Castle County, near the site of Wilmington, Deleware. They attended the "Holy Trinity Church" also referred to as "Old Sweden" before 1720. Their first three children were baptized at this old historical Church, one of the oldest and quaintest Church in our land. The Parish of Christine was situated on both sides of the Brandywine. By Swedish measure, it was two miles in length and one in breadth, making the most remote family living six and a half miles from Church. The town of Wilmington, Deleware, is built on the "Swedish Church" land which was chartered in 1735. The descendants of Joseph lived here prior to 1720 and until 1797 but during this period many had started to migrate southward. Joseph died 1753.

9-1. (Joseph) HANNAH born March 20, 1720 and was baptized 1720 at "Old Sweden."

9-6. (Joseph) JOHN born October 1724 at New Castle, Penn. was baptized in "Holy Trinity" or Old Sweden Church Mar. 25, 1726. His first marriage was in 1743 to a Miss Brittian. There were four sons and one daughter to this union. His second marriage was to Elizabeth ____, and they had a large family which included several sets of twins. One included Abraham and Jacob. John removed his family to Rockingham County, North Carolina before the Revolutionary War. Several of their sons served in this war. Shortly after the war they again moved to the Ninety-Six District, or Spartinburg, South Carolina. He owned over eight hundred acres of land located on Buck Creek, a tributary of Pacolet River. Members of this family were active and devoted workers of the Buck Creek Baptist Church and descendants attended this church for many generations. The names of all his children proved difficult to trace and no daughters names are given, only son's that are later proved authenic are used. These names were found in wills, records of real estate, registers of churches and Revolutionary War records, thus only 18 of the 21 children are listed. John died in 1803, in South Carolina, his estate was administrated by sons, Abraham, Steven and Moses Contrell.

After their marriage, they settled in Greenville District, South Carolina, but later removed to Grady, Tennessee, where he died. By tradition it is said he was the first Cantrell to settle in Tennessee. He located on Sink Creek, De Kalb County where he operated an iron forge, known as "Old Forge." War records show him as a member of Lieutenant Lyle's Command, Caswell County, North Carolina, in the Revolutionary War. Also, he was enrolled in Captain Moore's Company. He was captured along with Mr. Adcock at the battle of Cowpens, South Carolina, and placed on a British Ship to be sent to England. After getting four miles from shore, they escaped by jumping overboard and swam to shore. He served as Deacon of the Baptist Church and is buried in the old cemetery at Grady, Tennessee. 12-6. (John) ABRAHAM, born in South Carolina and married Susan Collins, 2nd, Ann Elmore in Webster County, Missouri. Another wife is believed to be his second, a Miss Robinette. Land grants recorded in Warren County, Tenn., of fifteen hundred twenty acres are found to be owned by him. However, his property couldn't compete with the urge to join the general migration westward, and in 1849 he disposed of the land, freed five slaves and prepared for the trek for new lands, and adventure. He was among a caravan of relatives, and their in-laws, and all of his children, except three, who chose to remain in Tennessee. They first stopped in southern Illinois with intentions to settle there, but found the land marshy and low. They again moved on, and stopped in Dade County, Missouri for awhile. Here Abraham's wife died. When learning of the Cantrell settlement in Webster County, they decided to move there. It was in 1858, that they reached Cantrell Creek and soon found land and made their homes. They became part of the settlement along the banks of the small creek that bore their name, becoming merchants, farmers and citizens of Duncan, Missouri. Abraham married his last wife when he was an elderly man, nine days after his marriage, he died. He is buried at the very old 16th cemetery, along with at least two of his children, who died without families.

13-10. (Abraham) John J. born Dec. 5, 1827, in South Carolina, died Nov. 27,

1917. He is buried at Prospect cemetery, Webster County, Missouri. He married Didema Van Houser born Oct. 1830, died Dec. 8, 1871, eight children were born to this union.. John P. married 2nd, Levina Linder and six chlidren were born to this union. John J. and Didema joined the move West one year after their marriage in a covered wagon drawn by oxen and shared with her brother, James Van Houser and wife, Jane Cantrell Van Houser, a first cousin of John J.'s. They left Warren County, Tennessee in 1849, and arrived in Webster County, Missouri in 1858. By tradition, the first to bring the Cantrell name to this part of Missouri, was Duke Cantrell in the 1830's. In a few years many more came and moved into the settlement of Cantrells located along the banks of a small stream known by then as Cantrell Creek. A small village appeared a short distance from the crossing of the stream on the main road from Marshfield and Hartville. Cantrells from McMinn and Warren Counties in Tennessee made up mostly the Cantrell families located here, their farms joined one another up and down the stream for miles. Duncan became the milling and shopping center, boasting of six or eight stores, blacksmith shop, mills, school, churches and several dwellings. A high school was there in the early days, located on the farm now owned by John D. Johnson, husband of Ola Cantrell Johnson. The school was operated in 1902, by the following faculty, Walter Bradshaw, principal, Derby Steinbury, assistant, C. V. Ellis, primary, and Lola Bradshaw, music. The school board was J. C. Nickels, Watson W. Cantrell and W. R. Landers. The students paid $1.00 per month for primary, advanced department $1.50, business course, $2.00 with board $7.00 to $8.00 per month. An article by Mr. Bradshaw listing the advantages of the school was published, quote "Our advantages include healthfulness of location, progressive text books, expenses low with easy terms, literary and praliamentary societies, Sunday School and Church, no liquor and a large temperance society to keep it away. Students may enter at any time and pay for time they attended, frequent reviews and examinations will be held, the principles excellant private library will be free for use of the students, if students wish any business course or any branch of study higher than listed in catalogue, they may do so." A sketch of the early times of Webster County lists the families prominent in Duncan as the Manrys, Todds, Nickels, Rupes, Pitchfords, Landers, Nunns, Cantrells, Youngs, Bishops, Burns, Cooks, Pyatts, and Minguses. The town had four denominations of churches, Baptist, Christian, Free Will and Church of Christ. John J. became a member of the Church of Christ in 1868. He died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. J. A. Scott.

14-1. (John J.) WILLIAM WATSON born Aug. 27, 1858, at Duncan, Missouri, died Nov. 9, 1928, buried at Marshfield, Mo. They were both members of the Christian Church at Marshfield, Missouri, where they had lived for several years after moving from Duncan. They built a large home in Duncan, and would keep the salesmen of the early days overnight and serve them their meals. No children were born to this union, but their home was a second home for several boys. Charley Gilley and John Johnson were with them for a few years during their boyhood days.

Jasper was stricken with polio at a very early age. Dr. Wallace, of Marshfield, Mo., was summoned, but found nothing could be done, and encouraged his parents by telling them that the boy would find some way to get around. His legs remained paralized, but in years of practice he moved around quite well using his arms as he walked. His father carried him to school his first two years, then he was taught to ride a horse and thus completed his education. He moved into Duncan in 1879 and opened a general merchantile store, now operated by a grandson, Foster Cantrell. Jasper became a leading citizen of Duncan, besides his store, he was postmaster, registered pharmacist, notary public, justice of peace, and school teacher.

Work Was Hard, Food Was Good

"Uncle Joe" Pitchford, 75, Recalls Range Days of Indian Territory

J. D. "Uncle Joe" Pitchford, 75, who lives on a small ranch two miles east of Nuyaka, was a "tenderfoot" when he came to Indian Territory from Missouri 62 years ago, but when rides in the historical parade which will be one of the features of the second annual Pioneer Pow-Wow next weekend, he probably will be the oldest athletic cowpuncher in the line of march.

For between the time he ate his first meal at a cowcamp chuck wagon and the day that cowboys became outdated by the rapid progress of civilization in Eastern Oklahoma, Uncle Joe acquired enough experience in the handling of cattle to merit the designation "veteran."

His mount next Saturday afternoon will be a veteran too. He will ride "Kelly" a 27-year old bay horse that he purchased as a 2-year old and broke himself. "Kelly," "Uncle Joe" says, is still a good horse.

Not only does "Uncle Joe" plan to ride in the parade, but unless members of his family rope and hog-tie him, he's going to lasso a calf off "Kelly" in the Round-Up Club Rodeo, which will be held Saturday afternoon immediately following the parade. And if "Uncle Joe" makes his catch and the little brute doesn't look too tough, he's going to follow the lariat and tie the calf in approved rodeo style.

FIRST BIG ASSIGNMENT

"Uncle Joe" then a young man, came to the Cherokee Nation in 1888 to work for A. N. Gibson, who owned a farm near Adair. A short while later Mr. Gibson bought 1,500 head of cattle near Muskogee and sent "Uncle Joe" down to take care of them.

Conscious that he was the rankest kind of a greenhorn, he rode into a cowcamp where 35 southern Texas cowboys were just getting ready to eat the evening meal. The cook yelled "Chuck!" and somebody told "Gibson" as they called him because he worked for Gibson, to "grab a plate."

The young Missouri farmer helped timself to a tin plate, tin cup, knife, fork and spoon, and watching the experienced hands, filled his plate with roasted ribs, boiled beans, biscuits that had been baked in a Dutch cver, and coffee which had been boiled in a huge pot, and sat down on the grass to eat. For the next 20 years he was to become more familiar with dining in that style than to sitting down at a table.

In those days, most cowboys worked for $25 a month and were provided with horses and food. They had to furnish their own clothing, beds, and saddles.

WORE CHAPS FOR PROTECTION

Ranch workers near Muskogee frequently were sent out without any money but could go to Spaulding's or Sever's Store and draw cash without any more formality than telling the store owner the name of their employer.

Cowboys in the early days spent most of their wardrobe allowance on good hats and boots, wearing ordinary work shirts and trousers to work in, "Uncle Joe" says. They wore chaps only when working in mesquite or brush, or in the winter to protect themselves from rain and sleet.

There was very little dissention among the men in cow camps, although 10 or 12 ranches would be represented at a round-up.

Rivalry would develop when a steer, with a long winter coat that covered the brand, was roped and the word passed to "See what's on him boys."

"They'd pick the steer so clean he'd look like the buzzards had been after him," "Uncle Joe" says. If the shaggy coat was plucked off or cut out with knives until a brand was finally revealed, the burn and smudged so that it couldn't be read, an argument would result, each man claiming the animal for his employer.

In such disputes J. W. Gibson, Wagoner, and Ed Hart, Okmulgee banker, who then was foreman of Capt. F. B. Severs' ranch, each of whom bore a reputation for honesty and fairness, would be called upon to act as referees.

ED HART "FED GOOD"

"Uncle Joe" says that Mr. Hart "worked more men and sent them more places than anyone else I'v ever known." Cowboys liked to be attached to a chuck wagon run by Mr. Hart, though, because he "fed good."

Wagon chuck usually consisted of beef, baked, broiled, or boiled; beans biscuits, and coffee, with rice once in a while. The men almost never got dessert around a chuck wagon, but did have sweets at the ranch house.

"Uncle Joe" worked for Mr. Gibson seven years. Running the Bar-O brand and later the 1001 brand, Mr. Gibson never handled less than 1,000 cattle and always had that many to be winterfed. He worked from two to four men who had year-round jobs because of the winter feeding. His cattle were wintered near Adair at his farm where they were given hay and cotton seed or cakes. He bought his cattle in Texas and shipped them to market in Kansas City from Summit, Oklahoma, or Y-Bar.

"When I first came to this country, all the cattle were longhorns—and the horns were long, too." "Uncle Joe" says he recalls that eight or ten men once unloaded 1,000 head of wild KW steers from the King Ranch in Texas, and that in moving them to pasture, all the cowboys except one had to ride in front of the herd to keep the cattle from scattering to the four winds.

LITTLE CATTLE STEALING

"Uncle Joe" doesn't remember that cattlemen in the Creek Nation ever had much trouble with cattle thieves. "People were pretty honest," he says. "Once in a while somebody would steal a calf, but he'd usually eat it, and that was all right. A fellow was supposed to eat when he got hungry. We used to leave $50 or $75 saddles hanging on the fence and be gone a week at a time and nobody ever bothered them."

Two years after "Uncle Joe" arrived in Indian Territory, he saw the Daltons, notorious outlaws, rob a passenger train at Adair. They uncoupled the engine from the rest of the train and one member of the four-man gang watched the train crew while the others robbed the train.

FRIDAY RITES SET FOR JOE PITCHFORD, PIONEER RESIDENT

Services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. at Buchannan Funeral Home in Okmulgee for Joe D. Pitchford, 87, who died at a Ponca City Hospital Tuesday morning. Pitchford was a Muskogee resident for many years, coming here in 1888. When he came here he went to work for A. N. Gibson for seven years as a cowhand running the Bar-O Ranch and later the 1001 ranch. During his long career riding herd "Uncle Joe" punched cattle for some of the biggest ranches throughout the territory. He owned a small ranch near Nuyaka until ill health forced him to live with his daughter in 1942. In August of 1940 when he rode in the annual Pioneer Pow-Wow, he was the oldest authentic cowpuncher still in action in this part of the state. Riding his 27-year old pony, he lassoed and tied a brawling young calf to become a winner in the Round-up Club Rodeo held that year.

Survivors include a step-daughter, Mrs. Jack Renick of Shidler, Oklahoma; a step-son, Owen Brown of Tulsa; two half-brothers, Harry Pitchford of Tahlequah, and L. E. Pitchford of Muskogee; a niece, Mrs. Tom Alford of Muskogee; two nephews, Charley Brazeal of Hartville, Mo., and Harley Cantrell of Marshfield, Missouri.

Burial will be in Greenhill Cemetery.

RICE

IN THE BEGINNING

APS R[illegible]

The Rice families are of English (WELSH) origin, and the meaning of the name is recorded as a rush: or red headed. Their motto on the coat of arms granted to them in the ancient English kingdom "Fidet Non Timet" translated, means faithful, loyal, not fearful. The Rice arms: 1st and 4th per pale indented argent, and gule, a lion rampart or crest: a crowned leopard's face.

The lineage of this ancient family has been traced by many genealogists. One query was answered by the genealogical editor of the Richmond, Virginia Times Dispatch, March 24, 1907, "The Rice family was Welsh, decendants of Kings of the 8th Century: the "AP" used in the names were titles of distinction, as in Thomas ap Rice or Rhys." Another genealogist has made the history of this family from Rhys ap Tudor Maur, who was king of South Wales in 1077. They were recorded in Ireland in the early 1400's, and some of them were knighted because of their military ability.

Various forms of the name are found in the earliest records, Rhys, Rice, Reece, Rise, and Rees are among the most commonly used, but in the beginning it was taken as a patronymic by the male issue of those so named. The University of Oxford in 1570 registered the name as Rise or Rice Powell: in 1605 they had the will of Thomas Rice, of Great Saughall, Chester; Henry Rice, Carmarthenshire, Wales registered in 1607.

In the beginning, the Rice family has been authenically traced from William the Conqueror and his wife, Lady Maud of Flanders, the maternal side; King Henry I, son of William the Conqueror, had issue by the Princess Matilda of Scotland, daughter of Empress Maud of Germany, who begat by Geoffrey Plantagenet King Henry II. King Henry II and his wife, Princess Eleanor of Aquitaine, had King John, who in turn had issue by his wife, Lady Isabel de Taillefer, of King Henry III, who had by Lady Eleanor of Provovince, King Edward I, whose son by his wife, the Princess Margaret of France, was Earl Thomas Plantagenet. Earl Thomas Plantagenet married Lady Alice Halys and had daughter, the Duchess Margaret of Norfolk, who married Lord Segrave and had Lady Elizabeth de Segrave who married Lord Mowbray and a had a son, Sir Thomas Mowbray, who married John Howard and had Sir John Howard, K.G., who had by Lady Katherine Molines, Sir Thomas Howard, whose wife, Lady Agnes Tilney, gave him a daughter, Lady Catherine Howard, who married Rice ap Griffith, son of Sir Griffith ap Rice, K.G.

It is this marriage that bore issue William Rice, born in 1522, and Thomas Rice, born 1625, that most American families of Rice are interested in, for William was of Welsh blood and the twenty-first in paternal line and the father of the first emigrant to America. He was descented from Vryan Reges, Lord of Kidwelly, Carunllon, and Yskenen, in South Wales, and his wife, Margaret La-Faye, daughter of Duke Golois of Cornwall. William's grandfather, Sir Griffith Rice was the son and heir of Sir Rhys Ap Thomas, 19th descent from Gorlos, founder of the house of Rice and was made knight of the Bath in 1501 at the marriage of Arthur, Prince of Wales. In "Worthies" by Fuller, quote: "Sir Rhys ap Thomas of Elmalin in Carnathanshire was never more than a knight garter but little less than a prince in his native country." He was made knight of the order after King Henry VII landed a small force at Milford Haven. Sir Rhys marched with several choice soldiers to Bosworth field, marching valiantly, the King made him Knight Banneret and later elected a Knight companion of the most noble order of the Garter. He later was Captain of the Light Horse at the battle of Therovenne, and at the seize of Tourney in 1513. His mother was the daughter of Sir John Griffith.

The coat of arms was granted to William. His descendant, Edmund was born in 1594 in Sudbury, Buckinghamshire, England and was living in Hertfordshire in 1627. In 1635 he came to America, bringing his wife and family, including several sons and their wives and younger children. One child was born at sea. He founded Sudbury, Massachusetts, named after his birthplace in England.

While the Rice family who migrated to the New World were the brave and adventuresome settlers of the frontiers of America, they were also soldiers of many wars, peaceful citizens in the normal pursuit for a livelihood, homes and happiness for their families. The lineage is one that a descendant should be proud, the beginning through William, the Conqueror, King Edward I, Charlemagne, King John, down through the line of Geoffrey Plantagenet, Duke of Anjou, that brought eight of this line to rule in the 8th century as the Angevin line to our American Deacon Edmund, Sudbury, Mass., the following work has been done for the enjoyment, dedication, and record of the Rice descendants now scattered from coast to coast, "cousins all."

America became the home for Deacon Edmund Rice and his family in 1638. The family settled in Massachusetts, but later generations began migrating into the Carolinas, and still later into Tennessee, Kentucky, Illinois, and on southward and westward. The pioneer spirit beaconed the family into Missouri, Oklahoma, and Texas, and in the present generation, we find them citizens of every state of the union.

SIR RHYS APS THOMAS

It has been said in the early settlements, where the Rices settled, they first erected a mill, then a church. The research proved it to be remarkably true. Also, many varied talents have been found in the descendants of the famous Deacon Rice. Farmers, soldiers, inventors, authors, millwrights, ministers, and teachers are among the most numerous of the occupations found listed. Education found a place in their lives, in 1849, 24 had graduated from Harvard, 6 from Yale.

It is apparent that the Rice family have appreciated their heritage. Many records have been found with very few discrepancies. From the various records and from direct help from the descendants, the following lineage continues.

The American family begins with the thirtieth generation. From 714 A.D. to 1638, they were residents of England and Ireland. The birth of Edmund, son of Thomas, in 1594 was to be the beginning of this line. No one can say that it was not a good beginning, a chronology published in 1858 listed 1,400 families in the colony and from this number over 7,000 were individuals that had Deacon Edmund as a common ancestor. The ommission of families or their descendants is because they are not known or the records of them has not been located at this time.

Sir Lord William Rice II, son of Sir William I, was born 1522. He was given arms by Queen (Bloody) Mary in 1555. The residence of Sir William II was given as Boemer. Knighthood given for military service. He was the father of Thomas, who had sons, Roger, a twin to Edmund, Edmund, and Thomas.

NOT TRUE
NOT Proved

30-1. (William II) EDMUND, later to be known as Deacon, the pilgrim, was born in Ireland, 1594. He married Tamazine Frost Hosmer, born June 13, ????. They resided in Buckingshire, in the town of Sudbury, eight miles north of London. In 1627 they were registered in Hertford, but soon afterward, they began their journey to America. The family consisted of six sons and one daughter, one daughter had died and one child was born during the voyage. Some of the sons had married and their children were also passengers and future citizens of Massachusetts. Edmund and his family settled at Sudbury, a town founded by him and named for his birthplace in England. He was to become a Representative to the General Court, Magistrate, a proprietor, and deputy selectman in 1644. He was made Deacon in 1648. He had become known as Edmund, the pilgrim, after his landing at Plymouth, and played an important role in the community.

He lived on the east side of Sudbury River. In 1658 he was one of thirteen who asked for a new plantation. Fifty acres was granted and recorded under the name of Marlboro. His first wife died and he married Mercy Bingman, who died December 28, 1693. He died May 3, 1663 and is buried at Sudbury, Mass.

31-1. (Edmund) EDWARD RICE, 2nd son of Edmund, born 1618, died Aug. 15, 1712. He was born at Barkhamstead, England and came to America along with his father and family. He married Agnes Bent. He and his family removed to Marlboro, where he was made Deacon of the church. He became owner of his father's farm which later deeded to his son, Edmund, April 1, 1686, Deed recorded Aug. 16, 1734. Some of the Virginia and Ohio Rices are descended from Edmund, Edward's son, and from Isaac, the son of Matthew. The sculptor, Harriett Hosmer, whose statue of Thomas H. Benton (in bronze, in Lafayette Park, St. Louis, Mo.) is descended from Edward and Matthew Rice. Mary Baker Eddy, successful writer, was also a descendant of this family. Edward's children were all born of his second marriage to Anna, and all but Benjamin and Abigail were born in Sudbury, Mass. He died in 1712, at the age of 93.

32-2. (Samuel) EDMUND born 1663 married Nov. 15, 1692 to Ruth Parker. He died 1726. This family suffered a tragic incident that led to him being the ancestor of an Indian (adopted) Chief. At this time, Aug. 1704, Edmund Rice and his cousin, Thomas Rice lived in Westboro. The adults were in the fields spreading flax and the small children were at the house, a short distance from them. A band of Indians came from the woods, killing Nahor, age 5, and seizing Silas and Timothy, 9 and 7, Edmund's sons, two of Thomas's children, Ashur and Adonijah, aged 10 and 8, and taking them to Canada. Silas was named Tookanowras by his capturers and Timothy was called Oughtsorangonghton and he later became the third of six chiefs of the Cognowaya tribe. In Sept. 1710 Timothy came to Westboro as Chief on business with an interpreter since he had forgotten his mother tongue. However, on seeing his native community he remembered it and the circumstances in which he had been taken. People in Sudbury urged him to remain there but he refused and returned with his Indian bride to Canada.

His name is found among the titables in Northhampton County in 1666. He returned to England in 1695 to claim a legacy but died at sea. He left his wife and nine sons and three daughters behind. He had patented land, according to the records of the Colony, 1200 acres in Hanover County, April 12, 1693, seventeen days later he patented land in Glousester County, for bringing one person into the Colony. Later, he owned a plantation in the lower part of Hanover County. It is believed he was assassinated at sea, his family was left destitute. In the memoirs of Rev. David Rice, published by Thomas T. Skillman, Lexington, Ky., in 1824, page 420 quote: "Thomas Rice was an Englishman by birth, of Welsh extraction. He was an early adventurer into Virginia. In the latter part of his life, he owned a small plantation in the lower part of what is now called Hanover County, here he left his wife, with nine sons and three daughters and went to England to receive a considerable estate which was left to him, but returned no more. The sailors reported that he died at sea. It is supposed that he was assassinated. No return was ever made of the property after which he had gone, and his family was destitute in a strange land. The family, being left without an earthly father, was distressed but they were in the good providence of God, provided for. The greater part moved about 30 miles farther up the country where they procured a small plantation, on which they raised numberous families; four or five of them became serious professors of religion, and were secceeded in their religious profession by a considerable number of children. His wife was esteemed truly a religious woman. Among those descendants that moved north was William Rice of Culpepper."

In Patent Book 8 of the same records page 261, is recorded a patent from Sir Edmond Andros, L.T. their Majesty's Lt. and Gov. General, etc., "To Thomas Rice for land lying in Kingston Parish in Glousestor Cty., said land being due unto said Thomas Rice by and for the importation of one person into the Colony." Dated April 28, 1693. In the same records, Vol. 17 page 132, is recorded a deed from George II, King, etc., to Thomas Rice for the 1200 acres in Hanover Cty. on both sides of the Cub Creek and Dirty Swamp, bounded by lands of Col. David Meriwether, David and William Meriwether, James Goodall, and Richard Brooks. Here, Thomas Rice lived the latter part of his life. He died Nov. 16, 1681.

He was among the early settlers who had come here before the county was organized. In Vol. 17 of the Patent records in Richmond, is a deed from King George II, to William Rice for 400 acres of land in the forks of the Rapid Ann in the County of Orange, beginning at 4 pines on a point on a branch of the Dark Run. This deed is dated July 29, 1736 and is signed by William Gooch. The last will and testament of William Rice was probated and recorded in Culpepper County, April 17, 1780. He divided his property about equally between his children; Richard, John, Benajah, Hannah, (wife of John Graves) and Sarah (wife of Edward Graves) but in the will there was the following provision, "I lend to my beloved wife, Sarah Rice, one half of my estate during her natural life." He appointed Benajah, John, and Richard, his sons, and John Graves, his son-in-law, his executors. Among his property inventoried were slaves, horses, cattle, sheep, one copper still, money scales, cash in metal—7 pounds 13 shill., cash in paper—55 pounds 8 shill., punch bowls valued at 16 pounds. He gave the copper still to his unmarried daughter. William was an Episcopalian.

35-2. (William) JOHN removed to the valley of Shenandoah. He obtained a large tract of land, and built a log cabin before returning to marry Mary Finney, of Accomac County, or Culpepper, a descendant of the ancient Finney Family who had lived on the Eastern Shore of Virginia for 250 years. John's father gave the newly married couple a set of silver spoons marked with his initials, "W.R." They returned to Rockingham County in 1776 and built a new house. Traditionally, it was the first house to be built with a roof steeper than 45 degrees that was made of yellow pine shingles, ¾ inch thick, pinned with locust pins, and endured the elements for 71 years. The cellar under the entire house was used for a kitchen and a cellar store room for bacon and whiskey. At that time, every large plantation had its own distillery and made whiskey for the use of that plantation. The cellar walls and fireplaces were built of brick. The house was frame with the weather boards of ½ inch thick, 6 inches wide, with a bead running along the edge for trim. Nails and hinges were of wrought that showed the marks of the blacksmith's hammer. Doors and window blinds were six paneled and a profusion of moulding was throughout the house. It was lathed and plastered, and the first in that neighborhood to be painted. It is said that it withstood the time and elements much better than Thomas Jefferson's which was built 16 years later. John Rice was buried in the Dayton Burying ground in the family plot commencing on the south side and extending northward in the plot.

34-1. (Thomas) SARAH married Hugh Gwinn.

34-2. (Thomas) ELISHA died in 1806, came to Tennessee from Caswell County, North Varolina. He married May 20, 1791, in Davidson County, to Ann Collier she died before 1806. At the time of Elisha's death, he had two sons, Joel and John, living at his brother's in Davidson County, Tenn. They were there when the famous lawsuit against he and his brother Joel was being held. The two were charged with squandering the estate of their brother, John. Elisha and Joel were the executors of this estate. It included many slaves, 130,000 acres of land, one tract being where the city of Memphis was founded. This tract was one that Elisha and Joel supposedly sold too cheaply to John Overton, James Winchester and Andrew Jackson. John was unmarried at the time of his death at the hands of Indians along with Valentine Sevier on the Cumberland River near the present Clarksville, Montgomery County, Tennessee in 1792. While Elisha's sons were at his brothers, his four grils in 1808 were in Sumner County, Tenn., being cared for by the Collier and Douglass families, principally James Douglass, who married Catherine Collier, a sister of their mother, Anna Collier.

35-7. (Nathan 34) ELIZABETH under 21 in 1808.
34-10. (Thomas 33) MASSEY
34-11. (Thomas 33) JOHN died 1792. He had a land grant in Tenn. from North Carolina about 1783. From the "Tennessee Counsins" by Ray Worth we find this account: "John Rice and his five thousand acres of the Chicksaw Bluff. John Rice, who entered a tract of land of 5000 acres at Chicksaw Bluff on which land the city of Memphis now stands, was killed on the 16th day of January 1792, while in a boat in company with Valentine Sevier and others on the Cumberland River in what became Montgomery and was then Tennessee County, not far from the town of Clarksville. At that time, John Rice was the practical or potential owner of the tract of land which he had entered in company with John Ramsey who obtained a similar tract. Valentine Sevier, son of Valentine and the nephew of Gen. John Sevier and John Rice and other occupants of the boat were fired upon by the Indians and young Sevier was instantly killed. John Rice came originally from Caswell County, North Carolina and one of his sisters, Ann Rice married Daniel Williams, son of Gen. James Williams, who was slain at King's Mountain, during the Revolution. The family was from Hanover County, Va., and Ann Rice moved to South Carolina with her husband's relatives. Jesse and Shadrack Rice were John's brothers. They came to West Tennessee from South Carolina about the same time John came from Caswell County as did Joel and Elisha Rice, two other brothers. John Rice was called the Indian Trader but was also a land trader, for before his death he had acquired title to as much as 130,000 acres of land in the Western District. Judge John Overton and Andrew Jackson purchased much of the Rice lands from the heirs of John Rice. Rice was related to the Batts and Wright families, who were heirs. Later, Jackson sold parts of his interest to Gen. James Winchester, or to his brothers, Stephen, Richard and William Winchester, but Jackson's final disposal of his interest in these lands was to Gen. Winchester in January 1818, who paid the sum of $5,000.00 for land. This consisted of only one eighth undivided interest in the tract." An article received from W. H. Thomas contains this account. "John Rice at the time of his death at the hands of Chief Doublehead (Tal-tsu-ska) in 1792, accumulated claims to about 130,000 acres of land. It would be interesting to learn the location of each body of land. The 5,000 acres at Memphis finally came into the possession of James Winchester, Andrew Jackson, and John Overton. Jesse Benton lived and died at Hillsboro, N. Carolina and his wife was a sister to Col. Thomas Hart, Partner with Judge Richard Henderson. The widow of Benton, with her family including some between Nashville, and Franklin, Tennessee. Since James Robertson was working in the interest of Henderson, it may be presumed that John Rice was also connected with the land company. It was in June, 1792, that Governor William Blount of Tennessee sent James Robertson to the Cherokee Country to invite the chiefs to a council at the confluence of the Holston and the French Board. Gen. James White had come there and built White's Fort where the First Presbyterian Church now stands at Knoxville, Tenn. The Cherokees called the place Kuwan-do-tlun-yi, meaning Mulberry grove place. Henry Know, Secretary of War, gave the settlements a small contingent of troops for their protection and after more than a week of bartering they ceded the lands down to the little Tennessee River. Double head and Bench (Benge, half breed son of the trader John Benge by his Cherokee wife), accepted their share of the goods and trinkets, appeared to be friendly, and for land obtained from Blount permission to hunt along the Cumberland River. They did not tell him that they would be hunting for scalps. Meanwhile Bloody Fellow (Yunwi-ga) had gone to Philadelphia to see the President, was well received, and Washington conferred upon him a new name, Es-ka-qua, Shawnee for Clear Sky. The Cherokee for Clear Sky was Galunti-yiga. It was while Es-ka-qua was being thusly honored, Doublehead was along the Cumberland where he took Conrad's Salt Boat and a Scalp; slew and scalped two sons of Valentine Sevier, Robert and William, and their companion, William Curtis. Next day they fired upon a boat and killed John Rice and young Valentine Sevier near Clarksville, and lurked around and later killed and scalped a man named Boyd, who lived in Clarksville. In all, he took seven scalps to avenge the wonton slaying of his uncle, old Tassell (Kai-ya-tsatehe) whom young John Kirk had slain under a flag of truce because of the slaughter of Kirk's family."

THE PIONEER ERA

In the years spaning 714-1717, the Rice family endured hardships, but they proved to be a family of stout hearts, ambitious men and women heady for more difficult times ahead in the pioneer age of America. The Pioneer ancestor of many of the Western Rices was the well-known mill owner, Henry Rice, Jr., 33rd generation representative. To best understand the families of this area, the geography of the unpopulated Easter section of Tennessee and adjoining North Carolina and Virginia should be revieded briefly. The gate to Eastern Tennessee, the Cumberland Gap, had been seen by white explorers, but it wasn't until 1764 that white explorers began the trek through the mountains into new lands. Among the first came Daniel Boone and his party, which included members of the Rice family. White family settlements in the section of Tennessee were not known before 1783 and most historians believe it wasn't until 1886. This territory at that time was in the state of North Carolina, which took full jurisdiction over all the territory heretofore given to the Cherokee tribes by a treaty from England before the end of the Revolutionary War. Because of the uprising of the Cherokee, another treaty known as the Treaty of Hopewell in 1785, again assurred the Indians their rights to lands in the Clinch and Powell Valleys, south of Campbell's line. This ran from a point near the Cumberland Gap south-westward to the Holston River, leaving a small portion Northward (Claiborne County) and most of the land of Hawkins and Hancock Counties. Legal entry of whites was the result. There were raids at various times; in 1793 Indians stole horses at Low's station on the Clinch River; Homacks station was attacked the same year, also Well's Station on Hinds River.

Henry Rice fortified his mill, and it was a refuge for the settlers in 1775. It was located on the Holston River, two miles west of Church Hill, in Hawkins County, Tennessee. Capt. James Robertson kept his Militia at this old mill during the Cherokee Wars. The descent of the Rice families began in this era with the entry of Henry, his sons, and his daughters.

The territory to become the home of the Rice families for the next few generations is one of color and tradition. The historical Cumberland Gap Country in the 1760s was a sinster challenge to the most stalwart. Daniel Boone was one of the first to blaze a trail through nature's greatest chasm then known. It was so gigantic that it was awesome but promised, as it became known, a new outlet to new lands. Those who view its wild, rugged contours today, do not forget it and readily understand how the gap became a natural ambush during the Civil War.

President Lincoln, who had many family ties in Eastern Tennessee, aften spoke of the Cumberland territory and its people. Tennessee became dear to him as it bore the load placed on it during the Civil War. Lincoln commented to General Howard during an interview at this time, quote "General, if you come out of this horror and misery alive and I pray to God you may, I want you to do something for these mountain people who have been shut out of the world all these years. I know them. If I live I will do all I can to aid and between us perhaps we can do justice they deserve. Please remember this."

Because of this, in 1898 a Charter was made for Lincoln Memorial University. In its beautiful setting, it has served and has been served by several of the Rice descendants. In the early 1900's Samuel Rice was employed here and served for 40 years as gardener. His son, Sidney, attended and later became an instructor at the school. Many others bearing the Rice name have attended it.

A legend of East Tennessee was set to music and proved itself quite popular in the early 1900's. It was often played at square dances and social gatherings.

"THE BALLAD OF CUMBERLAND GAP"

"Daniel Boone on Pinnacle Rock,
He killed the Indians with an old Flint Lock.
Chorus: Lay down boys and take a nap
They're raising hell in Cumberland Gap.
Cumberland Gap is a noted place.
There's three kinds of water to wash your face.
Cumberland Gap with its cliff and rocks
Home of the panther, bear, and fox.
Me and my wife and our little chap,
All make a living in Cumberland Gap.
September morn in sixty two,
Morgan's Yankees all withdrew.
They spiked "Long Tom" on the mountain top,
And over the clifts they let him drop.
They burned the hay the meal and meat
And left the rebels nothing to eat.
Braxton Bragg with his rebel band
He ran George Morgan to the Blue Grass Land.

96th District

34-1. (Henry) HENRY RICE, JR. (The Pioneer) born in Hanover, Virginia 1717, died 1817. He migrated into South Carolina, Pendleton District, then to the Watuage Settlement about 1771. He obtained several land grants, some on the Holtston River in the present Hawkins County, Tennessee, where he built and fortified "the old mill," (now a state historical site). A marker bearing the following explanation has been erected: "On the site of this mill, Henry Rice built and fortified a mill in 1775. Here, in 1776 the settlers took refuge from warring Cherokee. In April, 1777, Captain James Robertson and eight other pioneers had a fight with 30 or more Cherokee near here, in which Frederick Calvart was scalped." This marker is located on US 11-W highway near Church Hill, Tennessee.

At the time of these raids it was considered within the boundaries of Virginia. In the partial roster of troops under Col. William Christion in a campaign to the Cherokee country given by Lewis Preston Summers in his "History of Southwest Virginia" several Rice names appear, Henry, John and James, his sons, as well as a Mr. Douglas and others who later settled on the Cumberland. In Lipscomb's Diary of an account of a trip into the Cumberland settlement, he mentions a visit to the Mr. Rice Place, which was the Henry Rice mill.

In 1778, Henry received a land grant for 640 acres on Lost Creek in Bal~~l~~d Valley, Union County, Tennessee. His son, James, had already settled in this community when Henry and his family joined him and built a log cabin adjoining the four acre plot, later set aside by James for a burial ground, religious, and educational purposes in perpetuity and now known as Lost Creek Cemetery. Tradition has it, that the first person buried in this plot was a comrade of Henry's who was visiting him. They had been comrades in the Revolutionary War and while he was still at Henry's, he became ill and died. He was burried within a few feet of the Rice cabin, lying on the north side of the plot.

The ancient grave yard is located on the Norris reservation, the lake coming within a few feet of it. You may go there by boat, however, TVA has maintained a road to it. The Sons of the American Revolution, John Sevier Chapter, is in the process of marking his grave with a proper marker. It is now marked with a large pointed stone, grayed with age. The grave beside it, presumed to be his wife's, is marked with a smaller stone of the same shape. His son, James and wife, also are designated with stones, each of the same trianglar shape. The plot has been the site of three churches, but only a few stones remain of the ancient foundations. In spite of the loneliness of the plot, the graves, shaded by many trees, the cleared lane-like trail that led at one time to one of the church structures, is well preserved for its age. The name of Henry's wife it not known, but there was a Rice-Blevins relationship. There was also a relationship between the "Lone Hunter" Waldens and Henry. Waldens and Dr. Thomas Walker explored Kentucky in 1750 for the Loyal Land Co., headed by Peter Jefferson and Thomas Madison.

The old mill at Church Hill is almost on the level with the creek. Its foundations of immense ilmestones enxend six to seven feet. There is no floor but a hugh corner fireplace could consume logs five or six feet long. Above the ground floor are two more stories besides an attic.

Henry died at the home of his daughter, Elizabeth Smith, in what was called the old loom house at the back of the James Rice mill.

35-2. (Henry) ANNE married Augustus Wilson.

36-1. Anne) AMOS

36-2. (Anne) JAMES

36-3. (Anne) ISAAC

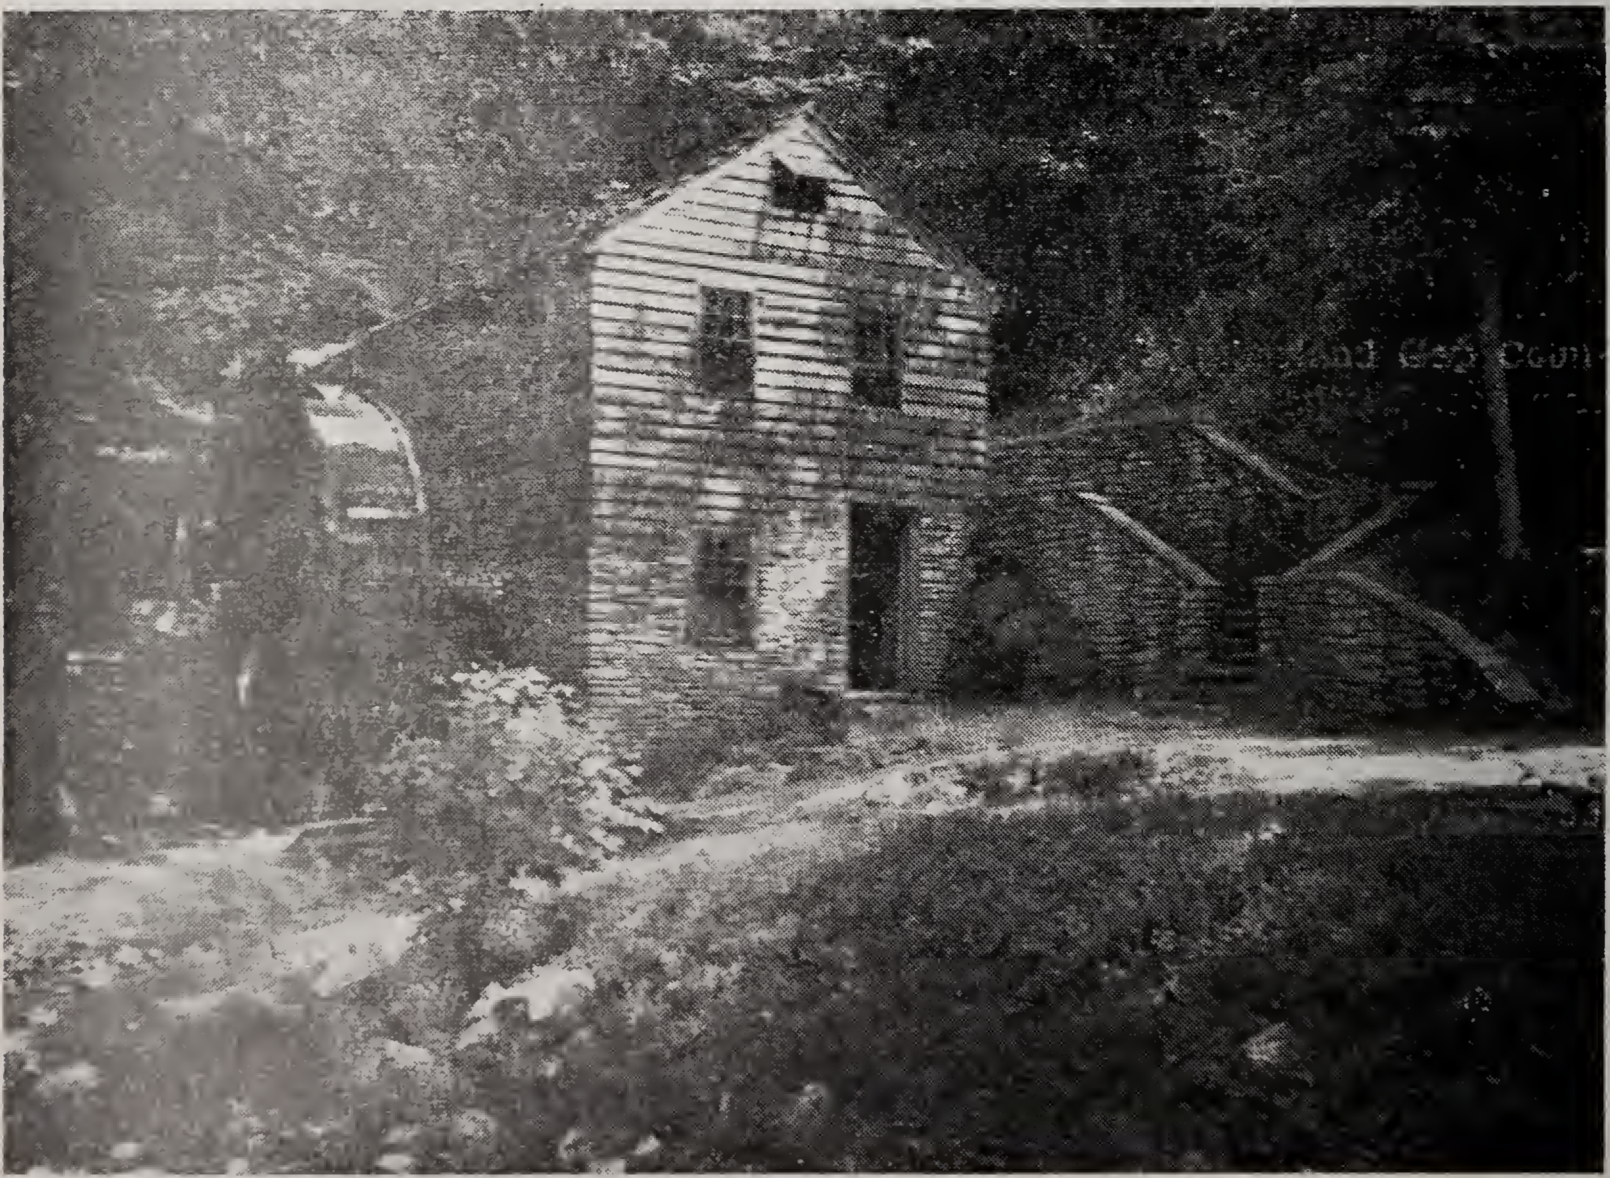
35-3. (Henry) JOHN. He lived eight miles north of Knoxville at Beaver Dam. He was the second son of Henry. He later moved to the present Roane County, Tennessee to a large spring near Rockwood, where he built a mill and a church. The will of John Rice shows that he was married twice.

36-1. (John) HENRY

36-2. (John) ISAAC born 1775 was the executor of his father's estate. In 1819 when the Hewasee Purchase was consummated he came to Athens, Tennessee, and acquired land at Mt. Harmony and built a mill and a church. He was a commissioner to lay off streets and sold lots for the city of Athens in 1821. He married Susan Senter, daughter of Tandy Senter and aunt of Gov. Dewitt Clinton Senter. After her death, he married a Miss Matlock.

34-4. (Henry) JAMES married Rebecca Miller, sister of Jacob and Morris Miller of Kentucky. James was living in South Carolina in 1790 when the Census of Pendleton District was taken. He came into the Clinch River and the Bal~~k~~d Valley (now Knox County, Tennessee) in 1798, shortly after the land was given legal entry by the white settlers. On a 640 acre grant of his father's, he erected the old grist mill of Lost Creek, now removed and restored at Norris by TVA in 1935. This mill was photographed and it appears in the World Book Encyclopedia, under Industrial Revolution. It still grinds corn meal for tourists, and is being kept as a museum.

During the latter part of the 1700's the James Rice mill was a meeting place for the settlers around the "Big Valley" which was a fertile and beautiful valley populated by several Rice families. Flanked by Lone Mountain and into the Clinch river valley, the Rices lived for several generations. Their neighbors were the Sharps, Snodderlys, Hills, Bridges, and Kecks. This section is thirty miles from Knoxville. The Sharp family erected a fort for protection against the Indians, and the community was to become known as Sharp's Station. Five years later, James Rice erected his mill, and operated it from 1798 until his death in 1829. It passed to his oldest son, George, who operated it until 1868 when it was again passed to the eldest son, Rufus Rice. It was still in operation when purchased by the TVA in 1935. Repairs had been made from time to time on the mill, once when a wind storm blew the building away, a temperary house was built and the parts that were damaged restored. James appointed Enoch, his son, and Thomas Jackson, administrators of his estate. Purchasers at the sale included: Susannah, Enoch, James, Charles, George, and Joseph Rice. George and John Snodderly, Isaac Nicholas, George and John Sharp, Michael Oakes, John Prock, James Irwin, John Brooks, anl Richard Malone. A grandson of his who had lived in this community until he removed to Lone Jack, Missouri with his parents in 1833, learned of the wind storm that had supposedly ruined the old mill. He composed a poem, recalling his boyhood and relation in Tennessee. It was entitled "The Fall of the Old Mill," by Martin Rice.



The James Rice Mill, now on the Norris Reservation, Norris, Tennessee. It was located near the Lost Creek Cemetery before it was removed and made a museum. Norris Lake now covers its original site.

"And has it fallen—that old mill—
Upon the Lost Creek shore?
That mossy wheel, is it now still,
And will it turn no more?
The history of that fallen mill,
Its history who will write?
Its early deeds, perhaps they will
Be some day prought to light:
Its incidents, whate'er they were,
Few of the living know
They say my grandsire built it there
In years long, long ago,
When Tennessee was first a State
Within its wooded wild,
In seventeen hundred ninety-eight,
My father then a child.
The builder then was in his youth—
He long has passed away
And I, his grandson, now forsooth
Am old, and worn, and gray.

The Indian war-whoop scarce had died
Upon the hills around,
When settlers came from far and wide
And had their hoe-cake ground.
Those ancient settlers, where are they?
I cannot tell you where.
Long time ago they went away,
And left the old mill there
Children were born, grew old and died
In sight of That Old Mill;
Their bones are lying side by side
Above it on the hill.
And yet, through all those changing years,
In every changing scene,
In peace and war, and blood and tears—
And many such have been—
The old mill-wheel went round and round,
The stone went faster still;
And still the staff of life was ground
By that old water-mill.

The last old pioneer had gone,
For either woe or weal:
The never-failing stream flowed on,
That turned the old mill-wheel
The sons and daughters of the one
Who builded it were dead,
Save only one surviving son,
Far in the West, 'twas said.
Some children's children still were there;

Some few, but ah! still more
Reposing in the grave-yard where
The sire had gone before;
And many, many more beside
In distant lands away
Are scattered for and severed wide:
And have been many a day;
And of that number I am one,
In life's cold winter chill.
And from life's far-off setting sun
Look back to that old mill.

How often in my dreams I've seen—
Since wandering from there—
That mill, the cedar grove so green,
And fields as once they were;
And oftentimes will memory tell
The story o'er and o'er,
Of what a wayward boy befell
Upon that rocky shore.
Though memory now is feeble grown
And recollections fails,
They bring me back the years long flown
And tell the oft-told tale;
They point me out the narrow track
Across the vale and hill,
O'er which, upon Old Sorrel's back
I rode to that ole mill.
My cousins and my playmates gone
They often bring to view;
As when we sailed upon the pond
In the old dug-out canoe.
But I had wandered away,
And they in death asleep;
While other boys as wild as we
Sailed on the mill-pond deep.

Years passed; the waters in the race
Flowed on, and onward still,
While others came to take the place
Of those who ran the mill.
For eighty years—how long a time
Since first its work began!
The generations came and went,
And still the old mill ran;
That never-failing stream supplied
That through those many years
The land with meal and flour.

But was that mill the same, you ask,
Through all those changing years—

Was it the same in every part—
  Its stones and running-gears?
Ah, no! It underwent repairs,
  As everything must do:
And soon or late its every part
  Gave way to something new.

You've heard, perhaps, of that old knife,
  In use for five decades,
Which half a dozen handles had
  And twice as many blades;
And yet it was the same old knife,
  The man contended strong;
The same old knife his father had
  And he had used so long
And so it was with that old mill,
  Though oftentimes repaired;
Though millers came and millers went,
  The old mill still was spared.

For eighteen years or more it ground
  The bread I lived upon,
And then I left my native place,
  And forty years was gone;
And when those forty years were passed,
  Returned to that old mill;
It looked, it seemed almost the same,
  And it was grinding still.
I asked: "It this the same old mill
  My grandsire built, you know—
The same old mill I left in youth,
  Near forty years ago?"
In that old time-worn guise.

I was convinced; I fell the truth
  I could not answer nay;
I was, and yet was not, the same
  Bright boy that went away.
Like that old mill, my every part
  Had undergone a change:
And though I thought myself the same,
  To others I was strange.
They tell us—men of science say
  That every seven years
The tissues of the body change;
  And a new man appears;
And yet it is the same old man
  As everybody knows.
The oftener that the frame's renewed,
  The older still it grows;
Until at last, like that old mill,

Repairs are at an end—
It falls, it sinks and with the dust
Its every part will blend.

And yet 'twill live! That old mill lives
Within my memory yet;
And He who gave our bodies lives—
No part will He forget.
He'll raise them up more glorious
Than e'er they were before;
And they no more repairs will need
Upon that other shore."

Before it was laid in the walk there, it was used as a step to the porch of the old loom house where Henry Rice died. In 1810, he was classified as a merchant. In notes from early historical accounts of the gunsmiths of this family, it is said they made long rifles, commonly called hog rifles and were known to be very good guns of that period. They sold for $30.00 each. They were known to be accurate and were banned in shooting matches because their accuracy made the matches unfair to those who owned other types of guns.

The grave of Francis Harper Rice. Inscription on the stone in the handwriting of her husband, Pames S. Rice. She died 1841.

The Pioneer Church at Springdale, Tennessee where Francis Harper Rice, wife of James S. Rice was buried. One of the oldest Churches in Eastern Tennessee.

36-3. (Levi) JAMES S. married Francis Harper, daughter of Richard and Nancy Harper. James born October 17, 1804, and his wife, the same year. James lived first in Union County, Tenn., then later Hawkins and Claiborne Counties. He married second, Melvina Whitaker, after his first wife's death. He was a stone mason and made many of the tombstones for the community. One is still standing in the cemetery at the Big Springs Primitive Baptist Church, Springdale, Tennessee. It is at the grave of his first wife, in his handwriting the inscription still legible (1960), "Francis Rice, beloved wife of James S. Rice, Died June 14, 1841." Her parents were charter members of this old church, built in 1795 when the territory was a part of North Carolina. Later it was used as a fort, and a small trading post and post office was located nearby. The church still in good repair has been marked with a historical marker and is said to be the oldest church in Eastern Tennessee. James and his family live in Claiborne County, near Springdale. He had a small farm on which he had built a family mill. This mill would grind only four bushels of corn a day, but he ground for his close neighbors. At the death of his first wife, he freed twelve slaves. Three of the older ones refused to leave, one of them was Tom. On touring through Tazewell, Tennessee, (1959) a son of this old slave was found to be living there and he related the story of his father staying with his master, James, then later going to James's daughter. He was Joe Rice, now over 80 years of age. Five of James's first children came to Missouri after their mother's death and one remained in Tennessee. James had several children by his second wife, and after their deaths, two of the younger boys found homes with neighbor families until they were old enough to make their living alone. James and his second wife, Melvina Whitaker, and a daughter are buried in a graveyard close by the church, located on a hill now covered with a grove of young cedars. James wrote many letters to his older children in Missouri and it is from these letters that we find much of the information of his later years. He had thought of coming to Missouri and making it his home, but because of his age and his large family was discouraged from making the change. Just before his death, however, Harper, the eldest son in Missouri, sent him tickets to visit him. He came and stayed a short while. Harper gave him $500.00 in gold as he was leaving for Tennessee, and when he arrived home he buried the money. He became ill within a week after his return and was not able to tell his family where he had hidden the money. A search was made but his family did not recover the valuable cache. The following sketches are taken from letters written by him to his family in the west: "Springdale Post Office, Claiborne County, Tenn. June 15, 1878. Dear Son, I again take an opportunity to write you a letter in order to let you know how things are with us at this time, as to my wife and children they are in common health—at present, as to your old father of late months, he does not enjoy very good health. If I do a day's work the eisueing night my limbs are cramping so I cannot sleep, it is not to be expected for a man of my age to enjoy as good health as a younger person, not withstanding I am more afflicted than some men of my age. I was born October 17th, 1804. Harper and Eliza, I do mast sincerely hope you all are well, likewise, I hope Calvin and Mary and their families are enjoying good heath. Eliza I want you to let me know of your mother is yet living and well. Harper, the time has been long since I saw you and Eliza. I hope I shall see you both again before I die and pass away to be no more. I have not obtained a letter from you in many months, neither have I from Westley nor Rhoadman, nor Calvin, it seems to me as if my children was giving up as if their old parent was already dead. I know of a truth, I shall soon have to pass away as I cannot see my children and distant friends as I fane would I will write to them. Harper myself and my wife and two of my children are members of the Baptist Church on the 9th day of this month, we chose a preacher by the name of John White to take the care of our church the next ensueing twelve months, this was the day of our Sacrement Meeting, we likewise had what we call a Basket Dinner. Harper this is the third year I have lived on the old Prier Garlin farm, about one mile above big springs, a little over a mile from Ruben Stones. I wish to be excused for my awkward form and bad spelling and bad penmanship, I am getting old and toiling and hardships of past days and afflictions is enough to make my hands tremble. Not only so but I have wrote before I cannot see any out of my left eye and as I am old my right eye is failing—all nature has to wear out. I can say I have a nice little crop growing, the season has as yet been good, old corn with us worth 50 cents old wheat $1.00 and flour $3.00 per hundred. Coffee from 25 to 30 cents sugar 12½ to 15 cents per lb. domestick from 8 to 12½ cents calico from 8 to 10 cents, bunch cotton $1.20 cents, iron and cartens 7 cents. Harper I have been thinking and talking of going to Missouri next fall, when you write to me let me have your advice wheather to go or not. The last time Calvin write to me he advised me not to go, he said he thought that country would not suit me as respects that I know not what I had best do. Harper your mother died 14th June 1841. She died at the age of 37 and she has been dead 37 years the time will shortly come that I will go and see her. This from your most affectionate parent, Evermore, James S. Rice and Nancy Melvina Rice your stepmother and all the children sends their best respects to you all." "Springdale Claiborne County, Tenn., January 1, 1880. Dear son, I will send you a few lines in order to let you know I am yet living, I am living as a shock of corn to a ripe old age. I am as well as common though I never in joy first rate health as I did in my youthful days. The rest of my family is well as common, my oldest son Joel Clinton is married though only the rise of 17 years of age to a girl by the name of Jane Martin. Harper I have had a hard row of weeds in my latter days, if you can cut a weed or two I hope that God will bless your for your gratefulness to your old father, do not think it hard as I am old and not able to work. James Stone is dead and many more old men of this county my time will soon come to bid adue. James S. Rice to Harper H. Rice and family." "Aug. 15, 1882, Dear son, I find a letter of yours dated June 22 speaking of Calvin having six boys, the last two twins, Lea and Leaman, and speaking of Mary Crawford having a daughter two weeks old called Eliza Tennessee. The letter dated June 22 says you are fifty the 12th of January and Eliza forty-eight the twenty-ninth of December. I obtained a letter from Brother Joel Rice dated July 9th 1882. They was all well, his address was Craborchard P.O., Lee County, Va. My son Calvin sent me a card the otherday, they were all well. Harper, my toiling and laboring and all my tribuations and sorrows perplexities and crosses of dull mortality will shortly end, Human nature has ere long to wear out, James S. Rice."

"Harper my sister Mary that married Edmond Chisslers when she died in childbirth left a little daughter Polly Ann. She married a man by the name of William Stanifer. She is your cousin by Sister Mary. His second wife Rachel Smith was my cousin and was of Granger County, Tenn. Harper if you can learn anything of that family I would like to hear, Sister Mary's two sons John Baptist and James Pryor Chissler. Harper, Polly Ann's stepmother if she's living is of Cedar County, Missouri. Edmond Chissler's widow, his lost wife, David Smith's daughter, his first wife was my Mary. They are all well. Harper myself wife and Mary Adaline and Nancy Jane is members of Baptist Church, James S. Rice."

"Louisburg, Dallas County, Mo., Jan. 1, 88. Dear brother and family, as I am oweing you a letter I thought I would not neglect to answer it no longer, excuse me for not writing sooner. We are all well, once more we have had sickness nearly all fall. Spencer was taken sick last spring was confined to bed all summer rhumatism and newgalgy, affecting the heart. We are raising a granddaughter, Henry's wife died last Feb. and left a babe. One year old. Requested us to raise it, it is smart and pert as a cricket. Do you hear from Brother Cal. We haven't heard from him in a long time, the last letter we received he was in bad health. Wrote for Wes and I to come and see him as soon as possible, he didn't think that he would live but a short time. Have you got your pension yet? I have applied for one, my attorney thinks that I will get mine this coming spring. I have all the proof that is necessary, I shall also expect something this spring for service in home service. I saw Mr. Watson. They was all well as common. Said that Prior had got his pension. We have the prospects of a R.R. at last through Dallas County, the prospects is good for it to run in from Springfield to Buffalo and on north and its old bed completed. We would be glad to see you all hope you and Lisay would come down in the spring to see us if you don't come we will come out there between now and fall. Pay you all a visit tell Cal and Frances to come and all the rest to come out, I will have to close as my space is narrow, write to us and give us all the news. Yours truly, R. H. Rice to Harper H. In 1846 his second marriage was to Sylvia Breeding, who was born in 1767 and died in 1850. In Thomas's will dated Oct. 7, 1846 he provided two slaves, Fannie and Louisa, to his wife until her death then they were to gain their freedom. Simpson Hurst, George H. Cheek and Rubin Stone were excuterix. After his marriage he continued to live in Shenandoah County for a few years but removed to Wythe County, Va. In October 1796 he purchased land on the east side of New River from Zedial Morgan. On Januray 9, 1800 he purchased 100 acres from Sarah and James Breeding and deeds mentions him as Thomas Hurst of Lee County, Virginia. Soon after this transaction he moved to Claiborne County, Tennessee. He sold a negro girl in May 25, 1807 for $300.00 to William Stroud. She was named "Dica" and was 11 years old. On October 29, 1807 he purchased land from William Stroud a 330 acre tract on Tye's branch of Sycamore Creek for $100.00. He continued to buy land in Claiborne until 1829, when he owned fourteen tracts of land. The Big Springs Primitive Baptist Church was established in 1795, under the guidance of Drew Harrell and Tidence Lane. It was located at Springdale, Tennessee, but at the time of its founding it was in North Carolina. The Charter members of the church were, Jesse Dodson, moderator, John Cunningham, Joseph Cogdale, Richard Harper, Isaac Land, Thomas Jeffers, Joseph Clark, William Strand, Peter Neal, Sarah Lane, Lucy Hinney, Martha Jeffers, Rett Dodson, Elizabeth Jennings, Tharby Neal, Sarah Lines, Lucy Chissum, Nancy Cunningham, Dinah Clark, Nancy Harper. In the list of the men who served the Church as Ministers are found these names and dates, Jesse Dodson, July 1800 to July 1806, Will Jones Aug. 1807 to February 1825, Samuel McBee March 1825 to July 1837, N. The family of Eliza found under Rice

The following are old letters written by members of the eighth generation, the family of Simpson and Elizabeth Hurst who had removed to Missouri as pioneers and made their home at Urbana, Celt, and Marshfield, Missouri. Below a letter from Thomas P. Hurst to a sister, Eliza Hurst Rice, wife of Harper Rice of Marshfield, Mo.
"Dec. the 19th, 1887. I seat myself to answer your letter you wrote to mother. We are all well at present. The connection as far as I know are all well. Mother is in very good heath. My mind often wanders back to old Tennessee and my boyhood days. I think about the old farm and connection back there that I never expect to see. I am now almost 45 and I can begin to realize that my days are swiftly drawing to a close, but I trust we will all meet again in a better country ever to be united and where parting be no more. Tell Harp I would like to see him and talk with him. I also want you to tell Cleave Hurst if he comes back to Dallas anymore to come and see me. Claiborn Simmons is dead. He died aboutthree days ago. He was working around and fell to the ground, Pryor had got his pension, tell all my connection in Webster that I would like to see them. Tell Cal that I have not forgot how he used to mock the car's whistle as we came from Tennessee. Tell me if Dr. Bruce, and eye doctor lives in Marshfield yet. So I will Close as I am in town and in a hurry to go home. This from your brother, T. P. Hurst, Urbana, Missouri."
"Letter to Harper Rice, Marshfield, Missouri, Dec. 12, 1887. All's Well. May this find you the same. My pension is allowed from Jan. 29th 1887. I had no trouble in getting it. I received a letter from J. P. Simmons, he is getting a pension. I heard that you failed to get you a pension. If you did there is something wrong, you are certainly entitled to a pension. I would not give it up. I know you can make proof of disability that that is all that is required. Yours truly, P. L. Hurst, Celt Post Office."
"Letter addressed to Harper and Eliza Hurst Rice: I just have four children living. We are getting along very well. I went on a visit to see my daughter in the Indian Territory last fall. I like it down there. Jim Fowler and Mary live in Montreal, twenty miles north of Lebanon. He is running a harness shop. They have a girl living in Springfield. They are going to see her this fall and was aiming to stop at your house and see you all but I don't know whether they will or not. Mahala lives in a house near Billie by herself. You didnot say what was the cause of her death, nor how long she was sick. I would like to hear all about it. She lived to be older than Pryor did, he was . This leaves all the connection well that I know of, but Melvin. He has been in bed two months, he has kidney trouble. We will have telephone line in a few weeks from Lebanon to Mack's Creek, by our house and I am going to have a phone. No more this time. I would like to hear from you again, S. P. Hurst."

"Letter to Harper and Eliza Hurst Rice, Urbana, Mo. Oct. 15th 1889. Dear Brother and Sister. I write to let you know that your mother Elizabeth Watson is dead. She took bad sick about three weeks before she died. She requested me and Mary to write to all the children as soon as she died. She said she wanted to die and was well prepared, and she wanted all her children to meet her in heaven. I will write to Phebe today. We are all well and hope this will find you all the same. Write to us occasionally and let us hear from you. I think I will try to come out and see you next summer or fall, so no more at present. James M. Fowler. Mother was at Pryors when she died. She had never left there since you was out. She was burried there."

"December 15, Dear Brother and sister. I will write you a few lines to let you know that we are all well. Hoping these few lines will find you all well. I have put off writing so long I am almost ashamed to write you. You wrote to me something about getting no letters from Phobe. I get letters from her very often. She writes like they are getting along well, all of her children but two Elbert and Freddie is married and is doing well. Mr. Watson is well, he comes to see us all very often. We are glad to have him come. Mother told me to be good to him and I can't forget it. Simmie is married. He married James William's youngest girl. He will not move till spring. Albert is in Arkansas at the Hot Springs. He is working at a hotel. Thomas has sald his place and is trying to buy one on the Osage River. Prior's post office is Celt. Mr. Fowler has moved back to Mill Creek. So no more at present, I remain your sister until death, Mary Fowler, to Eliza Rice."

"Sarcoxie, Mo. July 20, 1883, Dear Nephew: I received your letter the other day and was glad to hear from you, All once more and glad to hear that I had one sister alive. I am not going to be long before I see her if I live. Does she live in Dallas County or does she live in Christian: And how far is it from where you live to where she lives: Where does Eliza Day or Evans live from Marshfield: How far and what course: I am coming very soon I do so want boy, that now lives. When you wrote Betsy was alive I was surprised, I supposed she too was dead, as almost all of our family are gone even my own family have not escaped. I have lost a grown daughter, my oldest died ten years ago, then over four years ago I lost my wife and one other grown daughter. I have one boy living in Texas, two boys and a girl in Montana and rest are in Sarcoxie. If I could meet with any one to talk to that I knew when I was young, I would not know when to stop talking, and if Liza Evans is as good a talker as my cozen Liza Day used to be I shall not get done talking for months. I may have to stop and rest but I will rise and come again for I don't allow any one to out talk me. Tell Liza I am coming a purpose to out talk her. We have a Masonic zoo out here on the 20th of this month. Going to lay the corner stone of a new church after that is over if nothing happens you may expect me at any time. I think I can get off by that time I have a good evenings writing to do and must quit for this time. Write and let me know how far you live from Marshfield and what course and how far Liz lives and what course, so I may know how to stear my course when I get off at Marshfield. Write as soon as you get this so good by for this time. Wm. P. Simmons." A brother to Elizabeth Simmons Hurst, wife of Simpson Hurst and Mr. Watson.

MACKIE

Mackie and its many forms: Mackey, McKee, McKay is a name of Gaelic or Celtic origin, orginally spelled MacAodh or MacAodha and means "son of Hugh" or "Son of the fiery or impetuous one." From the ancient Irish name of MacAodh or MacHugh came the derivitive of the Scotch and English forms now used Mackay, Mackie, and numerous others.

A noted Irish historian, O'Hart, states that many of the MacKeys, Mackeys and Mackie's are of the Ulster, tracing their descent from Amhailgadh, a younger son of Donn Oge Maguire, Prince of Fermanagh, who died in the year of 1315. Amhailgadh was the father of Philip, father of Aodh, who had issue of a son, Patrick MacHugh. Patrick was the father of Giolladubh, and had issue of Neal, father of Edmond, father of Cormac, whence came John MacHugh, of Ulster.

The progenitors of the Mackie's went from Ireland to Scotland in the twelfth century and there multiplied. At a later date, probably about the beginning of the sixteenth century, many of these returned to Ireland, mainly to escape the civil feuds of that time. They fought under King Robert, the Bruce, of Scotland in the early fourteenth century and is found that they received their lands from that Monarch.

They were prominent in the affairs of the Scotch County of Kirkcudbright for many centuries, this line represented as early as 1640 by Sir Patrick Mackie and in the beginningo f the following century by Alexander, John and Ross. These families appear to have been largely of landed gentry and yoemanry.

While many Mackies came to America, the earlies known was Neale and Daniel, who came to Virginia in 1652. No record of their descendants are known.

The coat of arms records for the Mackies and Mackays of Ireland and Scotland, is described as follows: Arms. "Azure, on a chevron or, between three bears' heads couped argent, muzzled gules, a roebuck's head, erased, two hands issuant from the ends of the chevron, each holding a dagger, all proper." the Crest: "A dexter arm from the elbow erect holding a dagger in pale, all proper, pommel and holtstor. A For the Mackie the arms: "Argent, in chief a lion passant azure, and in base two ravens pendent from an arrow, fesseways, sable." the Mackie Crest A Raven Proper. Their motto: "Labora."

This history begins with the American Emigrant who is the direct ancestor of the Mackie and Mackey families in early Tennessee and North Carolina, Missouri, etc. The arrival of three brothers, sons of a silk and linen manufacturer of Dublin, Ireland, came sometime before the Revolution; William, John and the third believed to be Thomas. Their father of Dublin, Ireland, whose name is not known will hereafter known as the 1st generation. He died in Dublin, leaving a vast estate, which was taken from the heirs who were at the time of his death inAmerica, and was taken by the government. Grandsons of this Mackie, tried to establish their rightful ownership to this estate, but the misspelling of the name of the third brother, who had left and lost contact to the other two and his whereabouts or descendants still remain unfound. It was believed he had gone Northwestward and was captured or killed by Indians.

2-1 (   ) WILLIAM, born in Ireland, came to America and stopped in Pennsylvania, where he spelled his name Mackay. He is believed to have served in the Revolutionary War.

3-1 (William) JOHN WM. a minor who ammased a large fortune in his connection with the Comstock Lode, on the eastern slope of Mt. Davidson in Nevada, 40 miles from the California State Line. It is from the report dated 1857 that it states in one year (1877) $38,000,000 was dug out by John Mackey and his partners. Discovery of these mines under what became the famed Virginia City, known as the richest town in the world, a remarkable incident in the history of mining. The richest pickings fell to John Mackey, Jim Fair, Jim Flood and Bill O'Brien because they had fortitude to gamble. Mackey continued to dig in the lower levels as a common miner after he had become wealthy, (From Clark Kinnard: "Today is the day") He also held lands in North Carolina. Deed Book 5-502, Gaston Co.: "John W. Mackey and Louise, his wife of Virginia City, Nevada: Jonas M. Walker and Elizabeth, his wife, of Philidelphia; and Harvey Beckwith of Philadelphia, a joint deed signed 3 Feb. 1873 to the Gaston Mining Company, Gaston County, North Carolina bound on Dickeys property, some of the property is east of the public road to Yorkville, S. C. and Weir's line, etc., this being the same premises and tract of land including and embracing the Kings Mountain Gold Mine and all of the woods, etc. wit: Chas. A. Loglin, Saml B. Huey." He married Louise.

4-1 (John Wm.) CLARENCE.

2-2 JOHN born in Ireland about 1763, came to America and making his first stop at Seagrove, located in what is now Randolph County, N. Carolina. He married Naomi Moffitt and they removed to Yadkin County then sometimes called Rowan or Surry. Some of their children were born before they came to America. They were members of Deep Creek Monthly Meeting and he and his son, Robert, remained Quakers until their deaths and are buried in the Deep Creek Friends Church yard, Yadkin County, N. Carolina. Naomi survived her husband 18 years. She was the daughter of William Moffitt from Ireland. He was a Captain of Revolutionary War and married Mary Davis of English descent. Carolina were drawing up the Mecklenburg Declaration. The house was near a spring and used the finest of lumber the world could produce, forest pine, hand dressed to make a residence that was practically permanent. The building was three stories and had 9 large rooms aside from hallways. Some of the walls are now supplimented with brick. The weather board is hand-dressed and the original planking is still intact. The framing is put together with wooden dowel pins. Robert was known to be one of the substantial citizens of the community, he was a farmer and operated a tannery. The plantation is said to have taken in practically all of the area in and around thetown of Yadkinville. He was a Quaker and was opposed to the principle of slavery. The homestead passed on to his eldest son, John and it remained in the family until 1935 when it was purchased by Elsie Wishon.

FINLEY

The Finley family is of Scotch descent, the ancestor being from Inshervie Fife, Scotland. The Finley's descendants of Fionnla (Fair Hero) or one who came from Findlay, Scotland, also known to belong to the clan of Chatton.

1-1 ALEJANDER FINLEY, Baptized July 27, 1667 at Inshervie Fife, Scotland, married Jan. 10, 1687 to Margaret Jennings, born 1668 and died 1742. He engaged in wollen trade in Dublin. He served in King William's War.

2-1 JAMES FINLEY born in Scotland but was taken to Ireland. He died in Cumberland County, Penn., Feb. 10, 1753, he was born Dec. 4, 1687. He married Elizabeth Patterson Jan. 10, 1706. They landed at New Castle, Delaware April 22, 1720 aboard the "Eagle Wing" and settled first in Chester. They later removed to Cumberland.

3-1 WILLIAM, 1712, of Augusta Co., Va. He was Capt. Colonial Militia. He married Mary Wallace.

3-2 SAMUEL, baptized in Dublin, Ireland, July 9, 1708, died 1772. He married Margaret ________________.

3-3 JOHN FINLEY married Thankful Doak, who had come to America with her brothers, Robert, Samuel and David from Ireland in 1720 and settled in Chester County, Pa. He was born in 1702 and they were married in 1723. They settled in Pennsylvania, later removing to Augusta County, Va. in 1737. He received a land grant of 892 acres, part of Burdan Tract. He served Capt. William Preston in Augusta County Militia in the Sandy Creek Expedition.

4-1 JOHN FINLEY, JR., born 1724, married April 22, 1741 to Mary Caldwell, born 1729. He was of Chester County, Pa., and was with Dr. Thomas Walker in expedition to the Cumberland Gap, 1748. He served in French and Indian War. He was also trustee and elder in the Tinkling Springs Pres. Church in Augusta County, Va. in 1747. He was Justice of Peace in 1745 and surveyor in 1758. In 1767 he accompanied two or three companions as far as the Kentucky River and spent a season in hunting and trading with roving bands of Indians. To them the country seemed almost a paradise, and upon their return to North Carolina, they gave such glowing descriptions of it that Daniel Boone and several of his neighbors decided to go on an excursion there. Boone led six of this party, which included John Finley, John Stewart, Joseph Holden, James Moncey, and William Cool. They left on their journey May 1, 1769 and by the 17th of June they were in the heart of the Kentucky wilderness. They took only rifles and knives for protection and to furnish them with food from the forests. They slept in the woods without blankets. Their clothing was of loose open frock design, made of dressed deer skin and leggins made of the same material, for their feet they had moccasins, and their beaver or raccoon skin caps and capes of their hunting shirts ornamented with leather fringe completed their clothing. They found vast herds of Buffalo on the prairies and on two occasions were near trampled to death by them. In December, they formed two parties, Boone and Stewart in one and John and Joseph Holden in the other.

5-1 JOHN born Jan. 11, 1742, married Ann Miller. He was one of Walaugians in the war of 1774.

7-1 POLLY (Margaret) married 1806 to David Crockett. She was born 1788. Polly was known for her beauty and education and was discouraged by her parents on her engagement to Davy Crockett. It was after much persuasion by Polly that they gave their consent. They were married and settled in 1812 on Rattlesnake Spring near Salem, close to his father's tavern, now Hawkins county, Tennessee on a rented tract of land. They borrowed $1,500.00 and with his horse, rafle, her dowery of 2 cows with calves and spinning wheel they started housekeeping. He built a log cabin and they lived primarily by his hunting. David's uncles were John, Archibald and Robert Crockett.
